SIR OLIVER LODGE, EMINENT ENGLISH SCIENTIST, ON TOUR

A charming and girlish frock of net fillet and tucks in delightful combination. This is one of the latest creations by an American fashion artist.

Tulle evening frock. Orchard tulle clouds this dance frock of rose satin, and the rose tones are repeated in the sprays of flowers on the skirt.

Charming gown of navy blue serge with metal braid trimming and double ruffle of pleated Georgette. The gown is at once neat and serviceable.

North Russian types familiar to veterans of the Siberian force. Photo shows Englanders of the far north during their party shopping expedition to Archangel, where supplies are bought for a year.

Where every prospect pleases. Nice (France), for the present in the hands of an army of workmen, is getting ready for pleasure-seekers once more. Many of the large hotels, which during the war were used as hospitals, are once more being refitted for wealthy clients. Photo shows the boulevard and beach.

Suitable and becoming for the young miss is this evening coiffure of simple style, designed to show off a well-shaped head.

This small pleat cream straw hat is trimmed with velvet, rose design. It is especially suitable for early spring wear.

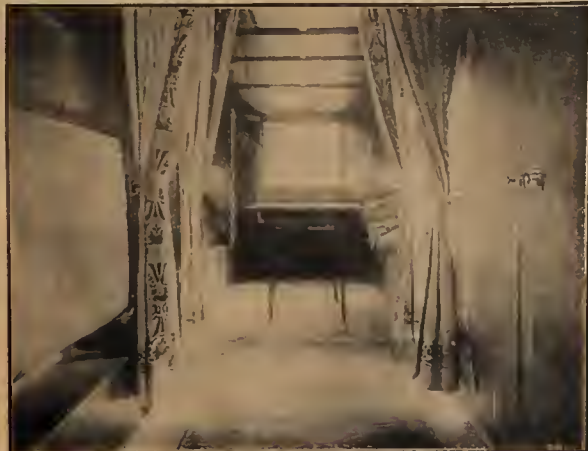

Advance spring fashions show a smart mushroom sailor of Senegat braid trimmed with London crepe scarf, becoming to a youthful face.

Lifeboats in the Toronto docks awaiting their annual overhauling. The work on the boats is very thoroughly done, and must pass a rigid inspection by government officials before being put into commission.

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world and now Pathe moving picture serial star. He has already started work on a picture, "Dead or Alive," and promises to "keep his end up" in his new venture.

Another solution of the housing problem. This motor bungalow is the latest Curtis' invention. A kitchen, pantry, toilet facilities, ice box, electric lights, a running water system and a tent cot for the chauffeur, are among its improvements.

A recent portrait of Sir Oliver Lodge, eminent scientist and Spiritualist, who is now on tour lecturing on psychical phenomena.

The indicating arrow on a "sub" chaser, one of the secret devices in use during the war. The arrow was used when a squadron of chasers were on convoy or listening duty.

During a lion hunt in the jungles of a great city. Only the producer of "Hungry Lions and Tender Hearts" knows how the king of beasts was made to "walk the plank" along a steel girder in mid-air. One thing, however, is sure—it's a real lion.

Paris is holding an aerial exhibition. It is attracting much attention from experts all over the world. The photograph shows a section of the Grand Palais, which is being used for the exhibit.

Camel's hair shading suit. This chic sport outfit bids fair to be one of the season's most popular models. The rakish tan is made from the same material.

Hudson sable is one of this season's most popular furs for those demanding elegance. The cape and muff shown are American fashion's latest decess.
